ATTEMPT MADE ON LIFE OF M'MANUS MORE THAN ONCE

Enemy Fired at Him One Night at Barn of Evansville Brewery Co.

Little was Thought of it Until His Murder.

PEOPLE SAW A MAN RUNNING.

Inquiries into the mysterious murder of Frank McManus at his home, 811 South Sixth street, Thursday night, September 29, have revealed the fact that a similar attempt upon his life was made about six weeks ago at the stables of the Evansville Brewing company, on Tenth street between Madison and Monroe streets. The would-be assassin, whose shot went wild that night, is believed to be the same one who murdered McManus at his own door and who had been lying in wait for an opportunity to avenge some wrong, which, if it existed, has not been told.

According to Richard Callis, local agent and manager for the Evansville Brewing association, McManus was shot at a few weeks preceding his murder. It was before the brewery office, at Tenth and Madison streets, had been closed between 7 and 8 o'clock one night. McManus, who drove one of the brewery wagons, is said to have been the last to stable his team and it was after dark when he was engaged in the east stalls of the double stable. His enemy had concealed himself in the northwest section of the stable and while McManus was at work a shot rang out. The report and flash of the gun was heard and seen and the neighborhood was aroused. A strange form was seen by residents to scurry over the west fence along Tenth street and disappear, it is said.

A search of the premises was made and the police were called, but no trace of the man nor the bullet could be found. Mr. Callis said nothing was thought of the shooting other than some drunken man had fired a revolver and it was soon forgotten. McManus never referred to it, to his knowledge.

Not until news of McManus' murder was flashed over the city did Mr. Callis recall the occurrence at the stable a few weeks ago. Mr. Callis says he believes the same man who fired the shot at the stables killed McManus, as there is a similarity in the two cases.

WALKS BEING DAMAGED BY THE HEAVY DOWNPOUR.

The rains have damaged the new walk through the hollow at the end of Clark street, and it is threatened to be washed away. The walk was constructed of crushed stone screenings and was constructed from the end of Clark street to the north yards of the Illinois Central yards. The walk was constructed on railroad property for the benefit of several hundred shopmen, who were obliged to walk through mud and water in order to reach their work. The entire cost was the payment of a freight bill of about $40 to the Illinois Central for transportation of the cars as the screenings were given to the city by the Katterjohn company.

MIDNIGHT PROWLER IS TARGET FOR REVOLVER.

A midnight prowler was a target for the revolver of Hugh Burrows, of 1107 South Fourth street, early today. The night before Mr. Burrows had seen a man in the adjacent yard of Clarence Ballow and this morning at 1 o'clock he was awakened by a noise and saw the same man. Raising his window Mr. Burrows fired three shots at the intruder but missed his mark. Police Sergeant Lige Cross was called, but no trace of the prowler could be found after a search of the premises. Monday night about 6:30 o'clock a second attempt was made by a burglar to force the back door at the home of B. A. Merritt, but he was frightened away by the inmates rushing to the back door. The first attempt was last Friday night.

Motorman Arrested on Charge of Causing Interurban Wreck Near Staunton, Illinois, Last Evening

Terrible Loss of Life Due to His Carelessness—He Had Withdrawn His Saving and Escaped.

Staunton, Ill., Oct. 5.—In a signed statement today H. E. Cuckack, general manager of the Illinois Traction company, holds John Lierman, motorman, fully responsible for the collision late yesterday between two interurban cars a mile north of Staunton, causing the death of 36 persons. Twenty-seven injured are in Granite and East St. Louis hospitals. Lierman fled from the scene to Staunton, withdrew his savings deposit and left town. He appeared at Carlinville this morning and was arrested. It is alleged Lierman, operating the northbound local, disregarded orders to wait on a siding at Wall for the passing of two sections of limited car No. 73, southbound. After the first section had passed, Lierman proceeded northward. The crash occurred at Dickerson's curve when the cars met down grade in a ravine.

The collision occurred between local train No. 14, northbound, and an excursion train, No. 73, headed toward St. Louis, and loaded with passengers on the way to the Villedard parade at St. Louis.

At a sharp turn, called Dickerson's curve, two miles north of here, the two trains came together with a splintering crash.

The curve is a sharp bend in the road and is at the bottom of a de-

DR. PURCELL INDICTED FOR SHOOTING DR. BOYD

Dr. C. E. Purcell was indicted today for malicious shooting. Last summer he shot and wounded Dr. Frank Boyd. The shooting occurred in the Fraternity building. This morning attorneys for Dr. Purcell objected to the case being placed on the docket for trial at this time, but Circuit Judge Reed overruled the objections and set the case for trial on Friday.

LICENSE ORDINANCE IS SUSTAINED IN COURT

Section No. 5, of the city license ordinance was sustained this morning by Circuit Judge William M. Reed by his decision in the suit of L. Y. Clark against the city. The section provides that anybody taking out a city license between January 1 and July 1 shall pay in accordance with the number of months until the end of the year. However, any license taken out after July 1, the person shall be charged for a license for the entire six months. Clark prayed an appeal and it was granted.

City Registration Shows Falling Off

Yesterday 473 Republicans registered, compared with 1,494 on the first day of last year. Democrats registered 986 voters as compared with 1,900 for last year. Socialists registered 114, independents, 68. The continual downpour made it so disagreeable that the voters would not venture out. Failure of a number of registration officers to appear caused some of the precincts to be opened late. On the supplementary registration days it is expected that there will be a heavy registration.

PLEASANT FIELDS OF HOLY WRIT ARE JACOBY'S REALM

Dr. Torrey's Famous Assistant,
Who Shows Men How to Use Their Bibles.

Interesting Career of Morning Lecturer.

AT 11 A. M. AT AUDITORIUM

interspersed with apt illustrations of such clearness that marks the manner of Mr. Jacoby's delivery. The class is growing in membership and Dr. Jacoby hopes to find some excellent material in Paducah.

Life of Mr. Jacoby.
The Rev. William S. Jacoby, who is instructing a class in personal work at the Torrey revival at the Auditorium rink, is a Christmas present.

He was born on the best day in the year in Philadelphia, Pa. He admits his early life wasn't anything to boast about and it is interesting to note that he did not become a Christian until he had reached the ripe age of 45 years. Although Mr. Jacoby is 64 years old he does not look over 50. Sixty-four years young would be more suitable for him.

Spending his boyhood in Philadelphia, he later went west and prior to his conversion he was engaged in the shoe business in Guthrie Center, Iowa. After becoming a child of God he went to Chicago, attending the Moody Bible Institute, where the Rev. Dr. Torrey was teaching. He studied there for a year and during the twelve months there Dr. Torrey took a liking to him and Mr. Jacoby became attached to Dr. Torrey. As a result Dr. Torrey, who was pastor of the Moody church, invited Mr. Jacoby to assist him and the invitation was accepted. For ten years he worked faithfully with his instructor and Dr. Torrey saw in him an unusually trained mind for religious work. He enlisted him in his band of workers, placing him in charge of the personal workers and for the past five years Mr. Jacoby has been associated with Dr. Torrey in this capacity.

Nearly sixteen years he has been associated with Dr. Torrey. To a reporter for The Evening Sun Mr. Jacoby inferred that the first 45 years of his life was spent rather recklessly.

By personal workers Mr. Jacoby means outside workers who rescue souls. He explained in detail their value to a city, a church and a revival and hardly before the reporter knew it Mr. Jacoby was using him as an example of how the personal worker approached people.

"It is not what you might call a class," said Mr. Jacoby in speaking of his group of workers at the Auditorium rink. "The word 'class' frightens some people who will not attend for fear some extra duty might be thrust upon them." The class is growing each day and Mr. Jacoby's lectures are very instructive. He told how a personal worker could aid a non-church member after he or she had announced intentions of becoming a Christian. It is remarkable what good results can be accomplished by a personal worker both in the church and in the city. Personal workers live in different sections of the city and have wide influence upon non-church members, whereas many would be lost if it were not for the personal worker.

After confession the Christian is expected to adhere to the following rules mapped out by Dr. Torrey: (1) Keep looking at Jesus; (2) Keep confessing Jesus; (3) Keep studying the Bible; (4) Keep praying; (5) Go to work; (6) Join a church.

An Army Recruit.
William Mulcahey, 23 years old, of Covington, was this morning accepted at the local army recruiting station for service in the cavalry by Captain George W. Kirkpatrick, of Evansville, Ind., who returned home this morning after coming here last night. Mulcahey was sent to Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis for an assignment.

Mr. James Skinner, of La Center, was in the city yesterday on business.

LISBON FALLS IN HANDS OF PORTUGUESE REBELS AND MANUEL II IS A FUGITIVE

Escapes From Palace During Bombardment By Aid of His Body Guard, Which Remains
Faithful to Royal Family.

Bata Joise, Portugal, Oct. 5.—Republican revolutionists, who yesterday overthrew the Portuguese government, are in complete possession of the capital, Lisbon, today. The army and navy have joined the revolutionists and King Manuel is reported to have taken refuge on a Brazilian warship in the harbor during the bombardment of the palace warships from Tagus. British warships are en route to Lisbon. According to refugees arriving here today, the king's reported escape is due to the loyalty of his body guard who remained faithful against widespread mutiny.

Manuel's brief reign, dating from February 1, 1908, when his father, King Carlos and the crown prince, Louis Philippe, were shot and he was wounded, while riding in an open carriage, has been stormy. The situation is made the more serious, because the same situation exists in the neighboring country of Spain, where the Republicans will be encouraged by the success in Portugal.

It was on a bright February morning, the whole royal family was riding in the gardens of Lisbon, when a fusillade of bullets killed the king and crown prince outright and wounded Manuel in the jaw. The plan was to slay the whole royal family at once. Order was restored by military repression, and King Edward of England, who was credited with the intention of putting an English princess on the Portuguese throne as consort of Manuel, lent moral support to the then tottering throne.

The recent influence exercised by anti-clericals in Spain to make the premier insist upon a new understanding with the Vatican, is working to the same end in Portugal. It is now believed that no concessions made by the crown in either country will satisfy the revolutionists, who are through with monarchy.

Fat Carlos, of Portugal, was a weak-kneed reactionary, and the young king, but 21 years old, has had only reactionary advisers.

Portugal at one time, the home of renowned explorers, who navigated the globe and carried the Portuguese flag into colonies in every continent, is a land of mixed races and lazy people. She possesses colonies in Africa and Asia with a total population of some 14,000,000, of which about 4,000,000 live in Portugal, itself a strip at the western end of the Iberian peninsula; 362 miles long and 140 miles wide. The people are Galician in the northern part, mixed English French, Dutch, Jew and Arab farther south, and with a distinct admixture of African at the extreme southern end.

Manuel is the last of the House of Braganza, descendants of the bastard son of King John I, who flourished in 1,400 A. D.

Spain Takes Precautions.

EXPECT ARRESTS OF DYNAMITERS OF TIMES BUILDING

San Francisco Officers on Heels of Men in Explos-sion Conspiracy.

Believes Organized Conspiracy Exists.

GREAT LOS ANGELES CRIME.

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 5.—Arrests were expected today by Attorney Earl Rogers, of Los Angeles, investigating the Los Angeles dynamite outrage. Rogers declared he believes that a secret organization is responsible for the wrecking of the Times plant and that a large number of men participated.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 5.—Search for the dynamiters who destroyed the Times building last Saturday embraces all the country between San Francisco and San Diego, from the ocean to the deserts of the San Joaquin valley.

The police are more confident than ever that the hunt in San Francisco will produce important results. A report was received by the detectives that the launch Peerless, on which the conspirators are supposed to have shipped the dynamite from Giant, Cal., had been traced from San Pablo to Avila, to San Francisco Bay. The launch was met at the latter point by an automobile, which immediately started southward.

Messages were sent asking for information regarding all motor car touring parties seen traveling southward since September 23. The police here do not believe the dynamite was brought southward in an automobile; that would have been dangerous.

Seventh Body Recovered.
They are convinced that a launch brought the explosive to some point on the coast near San Pedro, while some of the conspirators came south in the motor car.

The funerals of Churchill Harvey Elder, night editor of the Times, and J. Wesley Reaves, the young stenographer who met death at his post, were held.

Certificates of death, issued by Coroner Hartwell, to permit the burial of Elder and Reaves, read as follows:

"Death resulted from burns and injuries caused by an explosion, the origin of which is yet to be determined."

The seventh body and part of a backbone were recovered from the ruins of the Times building. Several bodies are still pinned beneath the mass of twisted steel girders. The bodies are close together, and this is accounted for by the belief that the victims were caught in the elevator shaft.

Try to Scare Workmen.
It is impossible to identify six of the bodies of those recovered. The police are now on twelve-hour shifts. The extra four hours are spent at headquarters as members of a reserve force, which numbers one-third of the membership of the department.

The non-union men employed at the Llewellyn Iron Works were thrown into a panic by the discovery of an internal machine in a brick warehouse near the plant, but which later turned out to be a sort of grim joke. Some one had arranged a small electric buzzer with a block and two dry cell batteries attached, in a tin box, and secreted it in the warehouse.

The continued buzzing finally attracted attention and the apparatus was taken hurriedly to a police station. It is supposed some one was trying to scare the workmen.

Want Their Money Back.

Failure of a motor in an automobile to give satisfaction has resulted in Michael Brothers filing suit in circuit court against Thomas J. Delahunt, receiver for the Rider-Lewis Motor Car company, of Anderson, Ind., for $500. The plaintiffs allege that they purchased a touring car for $937.25 upon the assurance of the agent that it was a good machine. After receiving the automobile they allege that the motor was defective and the machine would not run, and they seek to recover their payment.

Charged With Malicious Assault.
Charged with malicious assault Dan Owens, colored, was arrested last night by Police Sergeant Cross and Patrolman Shelton and Gelatt and locked up. No warrant having been sworn out the case was not tried this morning. Owens is alleged to have "beat up" his wife, Sadie Owens, at their home near Third and Harrison streets.

WOULD SETTLE POLICE ROW.
Governor and Baltimore Chief Enter Negotiations.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 5.—Negotiations for an amicable settlement of the controversy between Governor Crothers and the board of police commissioners were opened. The armed guard maintained at the entrance to police headquarters by the board has been withdrawn, and no further talk of calling out the militia to enforce the governor's orders is heard.

The dispute probably will be settled in the courts.

NIGHT RIDER GET CASES CONTINUED

PHYSICAL INABILITY OF ATTOR-NEYS SUFFICIENT CAUSE FOR COURT.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Oct. 5. (Special.)—The trials of Dr. Amoss and others, charged with the night rider raid on Hopkinsville, was continued until the February term on account of the claim that the defense attorneys are not physically able to conduct the case now.

Open Season for N. R.

Carlisle, Ky., Oct. 5. (Special.)—In charging a special grand jury, Judge Fryer urged indictments against the Nicholas county night riders. He said it is the duty of citizens to band together and arrest night riders, and if they are not able to do it that way, to shoot them, if necessary.
